

14. Framework • Resultant Sentence Form

- ① From the set of sentences in the last step of Form 12: Term Concept Building Form, select what feels like the most important term to be the subject of a framework sentence.
- ② Write a sentence that maintains the conceptual structure (relationship between concepts) from the framework sentence while taking into account the specificity of your research question. This will be the Resultant Sentence. You can omit this step if your framework sentence is specific enough.
- ③ Splitting your Resultant Sentence (or Framework Sentence) into its individual units of meaning, arrange them in separate sentences so that each comes at the end of the sentence. These sentences will become your Resultant Pattern.
